

Form 75: Approval – Owner-builder

Use of this form

This form is to be used by land owners who require owner-builder approval from the Building Services Board in order to apply for a building permit under section 20 of the Building Act 2011.

Eligibility for owner-builder approval

To be eligible to apply for owner-builder approval an applicant:

- Must be an owner of the land OR have an interest in the land prescribed by the Regulations (as described below);
- Must be an individual (not a corporate body, trust or other entity. In these circumstances, a leasehold interest in the land is required);
- Must have, or at least one of the applicants must have, sufficient knowledge of the duties and responsibilities of an owner-builder;
- Must not have been granted a building permit as an owner-builder within the last six years (OR must have applied to the Board to waive this requirement; see page 10 for waiver); and
- Must intend to live on, occupy or use the land (depending on the type of building the work relates to) when the work is completed.

Owner-Builder Work

Owner-builder work is building work in relation to a detached house; Class 10 building; or small commercial building. Owner-builder approval entitles a land owner (or person with an interest in the land prescribed by the Regulations) to be named as the builder on a building permit.

Detached house in this context means a building that is a Class 1a(i) building for the purposes of the Building Code. That is, a free-standing residential building where the applicant intends to reside.

Class 10 building means a non-habitable building or structure including a private garage, carport, shed, or the like.

Small commercial building means a one or two storey building with a floor area of less than 500m² that is not a detached house, a Class 10 building or a farm building and is intended as the owner's workplace.

Please note: the 500m² floor area is calculated on the floor area of a whole building not a section of a building

Ownership of Land

An 'owner', for the purpose of granting owner-builder approval, means a person –

- (a) whose name is registered on the certificate of title as a proprietor of the land;

OR

- (b) who holds an interest in the land of a kind prescribed by the Regulations.

Prescribed Interests in Land

The interests prescribed by the Regulations are:

- (a) a leasehold interest in land if the terms of the lease allow the lessee to undertake building work without the consent of each person whose name is registered as a proprietor of the land;

OR

- (b) an interest as purchaser under a contract to purchase an estate in fee simple in the land.

Leasehold Interest

If the applicant is leasing the land, the lease document should name the registered proprietor as the lessor and the applicant as the lessee.

Broadly speaking, all leases must:

- Identify the parcel of land
- Include the full name of the lessor
- Include the full name of the lessee
- Specify the lease term (length of time)
- Contain a clause granting exclusive possession of the land to the applicant
- Contain a clause/term allowing the lessee to undertake building work without the consent of each person whose name is registered as a proprietor of the land
- Include details of payment as consideration/rent (may be token dollar value)
- Be signed and dated by both parties

Interest as Purchaser

If the applicant is in the process of purchasing the land, the contract to purchase must name the registered proprietor as the seller and the applicant as the purchaser.

More than one owner

An application for owner-builder approval must be signed by each owner of the land. If an application is signed by more than one person, a reference in this form to the applicant is a reference to each of these persons.

Form 75: Approval – Owner-builder

Responsibilities

Under the law, an owner-builder takes on the responsibilities of a builder, such as:

- obtaining a building permit and other approvals before commencing construction;
- ensuring proper management and supervision of the works;
- complying with building standards and with requirements applicable when building work may affect other people or other land; and
- complying with occupational health and safety and other requirements applicable to the building work.

Like a registered builder, an owner-builder may be liable for defects that become apparent when the building is in use.

Applying for a building permit

Land owners wanting to carry out owner-builder work must have owner-builder approval from the Board before being granted a building permit from a permit authority under section 20 of the Building Act 2011.

When an owner-builder approval expires

An owner-builder approval expires six months after it is granted unless the approval holder applies for a building permit within this time.

If the owner-builder applies for a building permit and the permit is refused the owner-builder approval expires when the building permit is refused. If the building permit is issued the owner-builder approval expires when the building is complete.

Home Indemnity Insurance

Subsequent sale

If an owner-builder sells their dwelling within seven years of the issue of the building permit the owner-builder must provide the purchaser with home indemnity insurance issued in accordance with the Home Building Contracts Act 1991.

Registered building contractors

Registered building contractors (individuals) intending to build their own principal place of residence may seek exemption from the requirement to obtain home indemnity insurance by submitting a Form 74 'Registered Building Contractor – Building a Principal Place of Residence' statutory declaration. This application form may be downloaded from the department's website. <http://www.commerce.wa.gov.au/publications/statutory-declaration-building-principal-place-residence>

N/A Attached:

The Building Services (Registration) Act 2011 (the Act) prohibits the Board from granting an owner-builder approval to a person who has been granted or issued with a building permit as an owner-builder in the six years preceding the current application. However, section 45(2) of the Act provides for the Board to waive the above prohibition if the Board is satisfied that:

- (a) The building permit was to carry out owner-builder work on the land to which the application relates;
or
- (b) The circumstances of the applicant have changed since the building permit was issued and the applicant would suffer hardship if the application were refused.

If you have received a building permit as an owner-builder in the past six years, and would like the Board to waive the prohibition on issuing a new one, you must complete this section.
